

(Stratford Evening Post, 3 March 1914)

An interesting page in the illustrations appearing in the last issue of the Auckland Weekly News is devoted to beautiful homes in the "Garden of New Zealand"—New Plymouth. Inset pictures show the handsome residences of Mr Newton King, Mr H. Goodacre, Mrs Armstrong, Mr T. Furlong, Mr R. Cock, and Mr Drew. Pride of place, however, is given in a fine centre picture of Mr C. S. Curtis' very picturesque residence, which was designed by Mr J. D. Healy, the well-known architect of Stratford, and was only completed under his supervision about twelve months ago.