Demolition of old bank building

THE AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND BANK LTD's 91-year-old building on the corner of Devon and Robe Sts, New Plymouth, is slowly disappearing. Today the demolition firm was smashing down the walls. A spokesman for the squad said today it had been difficult to remove about 60 kauri studs. The floor had to be ripped up to get them out. The demolition is expected to be finished by Thursday. The bank is making way for a £67,000 building for MacEwans Machinery Ltd.
